The Armistice at Mexico.

NUMBER ONE.

An Appeal from Pillowism to the Record. Last spring the assembling of the Democratic Convention at Baltimore having drawn nigh, that doughtiest of modern heroes, General Leonidas Redivivus, feeling that Tennessee had been sufficiently cared for by him, turned his attention to the wants of the Union at large, in the way of President-making, by an expert of the proper calibre. That this paramount national interest might not, in those less favored regions, altogether perish from the absence of the light of his countenance at the critical turning point, he started at the right moment, and wended his way to the North and East, proceeding as far as New Hampshire, -in his transit to which, through "Modern Athens," he, (such was then the talk in her political circles,) together with a most congenial spirit that dwells in that latitude, one of the prominent among the worthies of Massachusetts. engaged in the task vulgarly called "putting heads together." for the purpose of bringing about the nomination of General Franklin Pierce. And, as might have been anticipated by any one acquainted with the skill evinced on a former occasion of the same sort by this modern Warwickthis king-maker of ours-a most successful conjunction of heads did it turn out to be. Pierce was nominated, "and no mistake." By way of interlude to this task of Presidentmaking, was a labor of the opposite kind: not President-unmaking, exactly, but President-preventing. The hero's passage through New York was signalized by the appearance in the Herald of a production strikingly characteristic of its author. So perfect was it in the latter respect, that, wheresoever met with, it would have been impossible net to recognise it at a glance as a genuine "Leonidas" production ; impossible not to feel, at every line, that there is but one soul sufficiently heroic in its temper for the thing to have emanated from ; although it is not meant to call in question the improvement it evinced over its elder brothers, born in days of yore, under the disadvantages of camp life, and when the parent was not within reach of editorship, so incomparably appropriate.

On this occasion, besides that general object, which, being never lost sight of by him, is prominent in all his doings, Leonidas had a special purpose in view, namely : To deter the Whig party from taking up Gen. Scott as their candidate for the Presidency. As to the means employed for effecting this object, these were of such a character that it could never have occurred to any but a Leonidas to make them available. Even on the supposition that the pretended disclosures there this supposition none but an individual absolutely case hardened to the shame—to say nothto be true-nothing short of heroism of the true his eloquent address. Leonidas stamp can qualify a man for.

He felt, too, no doubt, that he would, in all probability, have the game all in his own hand; for, supposing his whole story to be a tissue of. downright falsehoods and egregious misrepresentations, from beginning to end, this could be made apparent only by making the truth of the matter known. And how could this be done? Let the thing, as it actually happened, be ever so creditable to Gen. Scott, (and to Mr. Trist likewise, who is deeply involved in the odium which this fabrication casts upon the former,) still how could it be reconcilable with good faith towards others that they should give publicity to the details of a transaction of this nature? Dead, as he knew himself to be to considerations of this kind Leonidas knew them to be far otherwise. Hence his sense of security in indulging without stint in the unscrupulousness which belongs to his character.

This no doubt was his calculation; and the event, thus far, has justified his sagacity. The poison has been allowed to work freely upon those whose mental constitution is such as to permit them to be affected in their beliefs by such as this.

And, if the continuance of this state of things, however unjust towards General Scott's honest fame, and however grating to the commones sense of right, had its only alternative in a deviation on his part, from the course required by good faith, even though it were toward such a being as Santa Anna-if this were the only alternative to the confirmed triumph of this Bennett-Pillow compound over all who have not, in the honest instincts of their moral sense, a safeguard against it, we should be perfectly willing te look on and see that triumph consummated. This, however, is not its only alternative. For all men, sufficiently honest to be desirous of knowing the truth of the matter, or to be willing to have it demonstrated to them, abundant means are in existence for the purpose. There is no "It is said b necessity whatever for General Scott's breaking silence upon the subject, nor for Mr. Trist's uttering a word in regard to it. Official documents | him an unprincipled liar !" long ago published, abound in proofs of the utter | The Captain goes on to argue the question. falsity of this reproduction under Bennett-re- and calls for the revelation of the whole affair as vamping of Leonidas matter, which, all but in it did occur, &c. There was probably an ugly one single point, (the million dollar bribe fea- occurrence of some kind, but we do not admire ture) is altogether old and stale. being a mere expedient of the latter to gain time. In relation thereto.

DAILY TELEGRAPH. As now reproduced, it appears with the million dollar bribe addition ; and except as to this, it is General Scott thus hoodwinked and bamboozled. but, in order to his getting Santa Anna to place him in this predicament, he (General Scott) was party to the offer of a bribe of a million of dollars to Santa Anna, by way of inducement to enter into the negotiation, the preliminary step to which was that same armistice. All the while General Leonidas was the guardian angel of the occasion, exerting himself—though fruitlessly, such was Scott's blindness—to prevent that most disastrous measure, and avert the dire consequences with which he saw it to be fraught.

Such is the story, (all but the bribe part) which is now brought up again "as good as new. And now for the documents-those apparently ong-forgotten documents-which bear upon the reliableness of that story. Before entering upon these proofs, let us point out one thing, to which the attention of every candid reader is especially invited, namely: Supposing that the armistice had been (what it was not-for it originated with Gen. Scott and Mr. Trist) a device of Santa Anna; and supposing that Gen. Scott had been deceived by Santa Anna, (which he never was, fer single instant:) even on this supposition, the whole blame would—as the documents do most conclusively prove-lie at the door of the Administration (Polk & Co.) through whose doings is was that Santa Anna returned to Mexico, and through whose doings it was, therefore, that Gen. Scott and Mr. Trist had to deal with that notoriously faithless personage. If anybody on our side was duped by him, the original dupe (the one to whom all the others, whoever they may have been, were but consequential) was PRESI-DENT POLK.

By way of preparing the reader's mind to seize their import, we shall precede each link in this chain of documentary proof with a short summary showing what we propose to prove by it. Our first link will be an extract from President Polk's Message of December 8, 1846, and extracts from journals of those times, to show beyond a reasonable doubt Mr. Polk's collusion with Santa Anna/ This will be given to-morrow.

The Hon. Wm. D. Merrick, of Maryland,

This gentleman delivered a fervent and able speech in behalf of the candidates of the Whig party at Port Tobacco on the 5th instant. He appeared in response to the loud calls of the meet. ing, and stated that it was his desire to remain in the humble privacy and seclusion to which he had years ago retired. But he had no conceal ments. No man could have been more opposed to the nomination of Gen. Scott than he: his preferences for Webster and Fillmore were known. He was incensed at the preference of the Convention, and gave free expression to his feelings. He had, no doubt, fifty or a hundred times declared that he would not vote for Gen. Scott. Such was his intention. He had a right to form it-to express it. But he had also right to change it. He continued :

"Gen. Scott is an experienced, talented and patriotic citizen. My objections were not personal to him, but for great public reasons my preferences were strong for others—those preferences cannot now be gratified; they and the reasons for them have been overruled. But shall I therefore separate from my friends? No. Upon full reflection I have determined that it is wisest and best, may, my duty, to cast my vote for Gen.

Mr. Merrick knew Gen. Scott and Gen. Pierce well. He would not denounce the one nor laud the other. But he thought there was no room for made had been founded in strict truth; even on a considerate, unprejudiced man, to hesitate be tween them. Scott is the MAN!

The State elections yesterday resulted in favor of the Democratic party, as was anticipated. It haz not been understood that the determination of the people to elect General Scott had made it necessary for them to support the Whig State ticket also. The vote in the various counties is very small-there being a large falling off in both the Democratic and Whig vote-THE LABGEST LOSS BEING TO THE WHIGS. The candidates voted for for State officers were-

Canal Commissioner .- William Hopkins, Dem. and Jacob Moffman, Whig.

Judge Supreme Court .- G. W. Woodward, Dem. Joseph Buffington, Whig.

In Philadelphia city and county, as far as heard from, the Democrats gain 1,393 for Woodward over the vote of 1848, when Johnson, Whig. carried the State by 302. The Native vote, we believe, was given for him. Florence, Dem., is reelected to Congress.

Northampton County, partial returns, Democratic gain 86; Blair, 51; Lancaster, 214; Lebigh 67; Harrisburg, 214; Carbon, 103; Bucks, 127; Chester, 31; Canbria, 18; Huntington, Whig gair, 25; Berks, Democratic gain, 13; York Borough, Democratic gain, 149; Eric city, small Democratic gain.

The above relate chiefly to Supreme Court Judge. Woodward is probably elected by more than 10,000 majority. Hopkins, Democrat, is elected Canal Commissioner by a small majority.

George McLane, Brevet Captain, U. S. A. We have received the Carlisle (Pa.) Movements of General Scott. SANDUSKY, Oct. 12.

A grand dinner was given to Gen. Scott or Saturday evening. The Hon. Mr. Cook welcomed the General in an eloquent speech, complimenting him on his brilliant military career, and alluding to the offer made to him to accept the government of Mexico.

Gen. Scott responded in a long and most interesting speech. He said there was a misunderstanding about the Mexican offer, which he would take occasion to correct. It was made to him not by the government, but by individuals of great wealth and prominence. Their offer was ne million benus and a salary of $250,000 per annum, to be guaranteed in any manner pro-posed. They expected an ultimate annexation of the country to the United States, but, continued the General, "I loved my distant home and was opposed to annexation." He spurne the offer and came back to die on his own soil.

How will Pennsylvania vote for Presi-

The Hon. Andrew Stewart, of Pennsylvania delivered a masterly speech at Wheeling, on Saturday night last, in the course of which he said we quote from the Wheeling Intelligencer) that Pennsylvania would go for Scott by a certain and ecisive majority. Taylor had beaten Cass, a much stronger man than Pierce, in Pennsylvania, about 14,000 votes. But whilst he entertained not a doubt of the election of Scott in Pennsylvania and throughout the Union, by an overwhelming majority, yet in candor he felt bound to say that he thought the Whigs would be beaten on Tuesday next in Pennsylvania. The State election always went against the Whige. In 1848 they lost everything excepting the Governor, and he was saved by a few vetes-not 400-and by extraordinary efforts. Yet, directly afterwards, Taylor and the men were different. In the State elec-tion, the Whigs had not the benefit of the great currency was almost indispensable. national issues—the tariff, internal improvements and distribution of the proceeds of the public lands. Let not the Whigs, then, in Virginia or elsewhere, be discouraged in the slightest degree by Now, in every Whig procession in Pennsylv we see wagons full of 'straighteuts from Cass to Scott.' "

Mr. John Van Buren is reported by the Boston Commonwealth to have expressed himself as follows, in recent speech at Faneuil Hall:

"As he had before had occasion to say, he vished the country to know that he supported Pierce and King, and gave in his adhesion to their principles. Yet while he said so, he wished it distinctly understood that he had always been, and was now, opposed to that relation described as human elavery. He had always been, and was now, an earnest advocate of the National Govern-ment's abolishing slavery wherever it had the power."

The Baltimore American remarks: "In 1848, Mr. Van Buren announced it as his purpose to labor to make the Democratic party of New York the anti-slavery party of New York, and the Democratic party of the Union the anti-slavery party of the Union. It may be seen by the pasand their principles for the better promotion of his purpose. * * * We commend those gentlemen of the South who affect to be horrified because Mr. Seward intends to vote for General Scott, to an attentive consideration of the country, that we now hear. Journal of a Summer Tour.

This work is by the author of " Amy Herbert," "Gertrude," "The Child's First History of Rame," &c. It needs no commendation to those who have perused the pages of Amy Herbert. It was written for the children of a village school, "and," the author modestly remarks, "it could in no way be worthy of publication except as being written in simple language." This, in truth, is its chief, though by no means its only charm ; for, from the moment of her embarkation, in June, till in the latter part of October, she found herself again on English soil, the interest is unabated. The volume is composed of three parts : the first, containing an account of the journey from Ostend to the Lake of Constance; the second, that from the Lake of Constance to the Simplen mountain; the third, that from the Simplon to Genoa. MIRACULOUS CURES. People wonder at the quick efficacy of the R. R. R. Rem dies in stopping pain, removing its cause, and curing the most obstinate complaints. Yet there is no mystery in itmost obstinate complaints. Yet there is no mystery in it—there is nothing miraculcus about it. True, until the R.

R. R. Remedies were introduced, no remedy or medicine was ever known to stop the most torturing pains in a few seconds, and allay the most violent cramps of Cholers, Neuralgia, Spasma, &c., in a few minutes. Radway's Ready Relief will stop pain instantly, because it produces a counter action upon the parts where pain is felt. If the patient suffers from Neuralgia, it immediately acts upon the nerves, and imparts vitality to the parts where pain is expesienced.
The action of the Relief is quick, and the very moment it is on of the Relief is quick, and the very mo applied it begins to counteract the effects produced by dis-eased action. If you are the victim of Cholera, it acts instantly—taken internally, it settles the stomach and allays all painful irritation and sickness, it infuses heat into the every portion of the body. It neutralizes the pois malaria of Cholera, and checks its progress. Applied externally, it alleys Cramps and Spasms, and re-tores the cold-cramped and almost lifeless victim to life and health. If you are troubled with sick Headache, the Ready Relief, taken internally, will neutralize the acid of the sto-mach, make the stomach sweet and pure, and the breath mach, make the stomach sweet and pure, and the breath fregrant; externally, it will produce a counteraction on the scalp, and refresh the senses. This, then, is all the mystery about the action of R. R. Relief; it does not lie in the action of the Relief, but in the science of its chemical and pharma-ceutical combination. So with each of the other R. R. R. blood, and the diseased deposits, removating and resolving away from the system all scrofulous humors and poisonous RADWAY'S REGULATORS—for regulating the organs of the system and securing a regular action of each; freeing the bowels from all retained humors, assisting the stomach, aiding the digestive organs in their functional duties, the liver to secrete its bile, and the kidneys and biadder their urine; the bowels to discharge their burden, and the skin to emit a free and healthy perspiration. Such are the effects the R. R. R. Remedies have upon the system, and the mysery of their curing the sick so quick.
